

Editor of the Phoenix—Dear Sir: The following communications were refused a place in the Union, after that paper had given place to the lying communication of its correspondent from Lexington. I trust that you will not refuse me a place in the PHOENIX, although many of those who have seen the one side will never see the other. Yours, &c.,

SIMEON CORLEY.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 20, 1872.
Editor of the Daily Union—Sir: I am surprised at the mis-statement contained in the letter of your correspondent from Lexington, in reference to the barbecue, picnic, speeches and Convention there on the 17th instant. He who could not find over fifty individuals at the picnic must have been considerably mixed, to say the least. There were from 200 to 300 present, as can be attested by any desired number of witnesses.

I have no time now to correct the many seemingly intentional blunders it contains, but will add a matter of importance, which your correspondent entirely omitted, viz: The meeting of another County Convention, and the election of Messrs. S. Corley and Simeon Loric as delegates to the State Convention, and Messrs. F. Ludaway and Jordan Foster to the Congressional Convention. Four out of the eight or nine delegations withdrew from the Hayes concern, and united with the four or five which had been refused seats, and met in the Court House at 5 o'clock P. M., where the above result was accomplished. We expect to demonstrate that the regular County Convention was regularly packed, as usual, and shall, therefore, claim our seats as the representatives of the people. Very respectfully,

SIMEON CORLEY.

COLUMBIA, S. C., August 21, 1872.

Editor of the Daily Union.

Sir: Last night, I wrote a short reply to strictures contained in the communication of "Rep." from Lexington, published in your issue of Monday. I now wish to offer a few remarks in reference to that portion which relates to myself and Mr. S. E. Caughman. I was not invited to the barbecue, and visited the ground only as a delegate to the Convention, (in which a seat was denied me,) the Convention having been called in that out-of-the-way place for the express purpose of compelling myself and friends to listen to the packed speeches against me; which must be apparent to all, when they learn that Mr. B. J. Hayes could not be induced to extend a more definite notice for the meeting of the County Convention, than from the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. to 3 P. M. Thus it was intended to compel us to come into everything, except the Convention! Now, must it be stated what is well known to be a fact in Lexington, that Mr. S. E. Caughman is, or has been, a prominent Democrat of the Stokes order, and, therefore, the strongest reason for his presence there, aside, perhaps, from the promises of Dr. Hayes, must have been to traduce me. He had before tried the same game at Leesville, where I demanded a reply, and he denied that he had alluded to me in any way whatever; when I dropped the matter, only to hear of it again from his and Hayes' friends, in another form—"Didn't he give Sim. Corley hell?" Caughman's sons were on the platform with him; and when I alluded to the war of the rebellion, in which I had been compelled to fight against my wishes, while he had clamored loudly for it, and yet had cowardly shrunk from the fight, I was furiously assailed by them, one pushing at my back, with the intention of forcing me from the platform. He pronounced me a liar, which I threw back in his teeth, and now hurl it back again and again, and point to his pitiful record as proof positive of my assertion. If this charge against him, upon such grounds, is not such as becomes a "good Republican," then I admit that I do not exactly understand the true relation between self-respect and "good" Republicanism, and leave the "good" fellows to class me as they like, while I assure them that they cannot think less of my Republicanism than I do of theirs. Here, then, was a so-called Republican meeting, with the most ultra Democrats brought forward to assail me; and I must meekly pocket their insults, and say, "Thank you, gentlemen," in the name of "good Republicanism!"

The evening before, one of those same Democrats attended the precinct meeting in the Court House, and would have been made chairman of the meeting, if I had not objected. He afterwards asserted that he was a Democrat, and had come to the meeting to defeat me. Several of those Democrats voted with the Hayes faction, which, with other irregularities and packings, caused myself and friends to withdraw.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish it distinctly understood that I can never again agree to place an opponent in office who resorts to such expedients to secure place and power. If Dr. Hayes will withdraw from the contest, I will, and we will put up a third man, and unite (if he will) upon a platform against the corrupt State ring for our County offices and members of the Legislature. This is my only offer, and I will stand by it, though his refusal may rend the party in our County to atoms. I stand here, because Hayes has betrayed the Republicans of the County, by their removal from office and placing Democrats over them; and also for his bad official record in the Senate. Very respectfully,

SIMEON CORLEY.

A young lady lately wrote to H. G., asking him the best remedy for dandruff. The great farmer replied: "Use a rotating harrow, if the surface is rolling, until the soil is well loosened; then seed down with Canada thistles. If this fails, go farther West, where Indians are plenty and frisky. They remove dandruff by a simple remedy, and warrant it never to return."

A MONSTER SNAKE.—As Mr. George Knadle was crossing the mountain from Slocum, about one and-a-half mile from the Three-Cornered Pond, and a little to the left of the road, he discovered a large snake coiled around a young hickory tree, tail up. He gradually approached his snakeship, and discovered that a cow was lying at the foot of the tree. To his surprise, he was merely milking the cow as a babe would suckle the breast of its mother. Mr. Knadle, after satisfying himself that it was a mutual understanding between the cow and the snake, procured a large club and destroyed the snake. The cow bellowed as though she had lost a calf. It was a monster black snake, of the blue-racer species, measuring seventeen feet four inches in length and twenty-three and one-quarter inches in circumference.

[Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Daily.]

It must be quite a trial to any Southern gentleman entering the field to support Grant when he remembers the manner in which so many of his fellow-citizens have been tried and convicted and now languish in the Northern prisons. This has been done through Grant; and even now many of his supporters at the North are horrified at the wrongs suffered by these poor prisoners, and are appealing to Grant to undo his work as far as he can by setting them at liberty. It would seem to be hard for a Southern man to endorse and approve these cruelties, these outrages upon liberty and the Constitution. His sensibilities must be callous indeed if he can regard them with indifference. —Richmond Dispatch.

The Bowling Green (Ky.) Democrat says: "We understand that Mr. Calvin Liles, who resides in the Three Forks neighborhood, in this County, has a very peculiar spring of water on his farm. In the spring of the year, the water that runs from the spring looks like blood. The bloody-looking water runs from it twice a week, but for only a few moments at a time. During the fall the bloody water runs but once a week; and after the disappearance of the bloody hue, the water assumes a purplish hue, which soon passes off. The water is said to be very delightful to the taste."

Spotted Tail made a speech the other day, at St. Louis, in which he expressed the fear that when he dies and goes to the happy hunting grounds of the hereafter, his white father, (President Grant,) and his people will try to take his reservation from him. Spotted Tail may rest his soul in peace. If he is so fortunate as to locate a claim in the hunting grounds to which he referred, there will be no member of the Grant party there to enter an action of ejectment against him.

Mr. Greeley's travels in New Hampshire this week, have disclosed the fact that he has a frightful number of cousins.
